

A Socialize Remotely & Harvard Summer School Signature Event

"Teaching Yourself and Others During the Pandemic," with Dr. Rob Lue

Professor of the Practice of Molecular and Cellular Biology, Faculty Director of the Harvard Ed Portal, UNESCO Chair on Life Sciences and Social Innovation, Richard L. Menschel Faculty Director of the Derek Bok Center for Teaching and Learning, Faculty Director and Principal Investigator, LabXchange

In the face of COVID-19 and social distancing, it is vital to double down on the communal and self-driven aspects of education. Now more than ever, the Internet opens up possibilities to become authentic agents of our own learning. It can also help us combat the feelings of isolation that self-quarantine can induce. Professor Lue will explore ways to connect and support one another as a social network based on learning and teaching.

Join us live online June 29th, 12 pm
